This zine is dedicated to anyone who self medicates and wants to know more; to anyone who thinks there is something at least a little fishy about paying any amount of your income for health care partly made necessary by your job; to anyone who has not been to the dentist in over 6 months because s/he does not have the right piece of paper, plastic, or skin color; to anyone who has not been to the doctor in over a year for the same reasons as above; to anyone who wants to live beyond 45 without developing malignant tumors; to anyone who has a malignant tumor and wants to treat it differently than the HMO dude is suggesting; to anyone who has had to watch a loved one slowly die without benefiting from the harsh chemical treatments the oncologist insisted upon; to anyone who believes that treating a better world begins in part with how we treat each other; to anyone who does not just automatically believe that Kobe couldn’t have done it ‘because he’s not that kind of guy’; to anyone who used to fall asleep in chemistry or physics in college; to anyone who never took chemistry or physics in college because only the ‘smart ones’ took those classes; to anyone who was one of those ones; to anyone who regularly experiments with tofu. To all these people and everyone else, this benefit zine for Chicago Action Medical is dedicated. PEACE.

As protests throughout the world increase in frequency and intensity, so too do the violent responses on the part of the agents of undemocratic regimes and capitalist elites. Those engaged in fighting for a better tomorrow take great risks. The job of the action medic is to curb those risks by caring for the physical and mental well-being of warriors in the streets and forests.

This is a zine made to benefit the Chicago Action Medics. In the upcoming months, we'll be venturing to Indianapolis, Cancun, Miami—we'll be present at the actions held here in Chicago. Thanks for your support. We do our best to give it back.

This zine was made possible by many who contributed their ideas or their resources. To all of them, I say thanks; watch out for the next one: Stone Soup Cooperative, YWCA of Metropolitan Chicago, Accem, Eleanor, Nancy, Lao Tzu, Starhawk, and Chicago Action Medical. Thanks to anyone who gave feedback.

12 MYTHS ABOUT

1) "THERE IS NOT ENOUGH FOOD TO GO AROUND!" Food is available to provide at least 4.3 pounds of food per person a day worldwide. Many are too poor to buy this food — Most "hungry countries" have enough, right now.

2) "FAMINE IS NATURAL." Blaming nature for hunger is like blaming winter for the many homeless who die during that season: famine comes from human institutions/policies.

3) "THERE ARE TOO MANY PEOPLE TO FEED!" Population density does not explain hunger — Rapid population growth, like hunger, result from underlying inequities that deprive the poor of economic opportunities and security.

"We are the people. We have the potential for power. We must not fool ourselves. We must not mislead ourselves. It takes more than good intentions. It takes commitment. It takes recognizing that at some point in our lives we are going to have to decide that we have a way of life that we follow, and we are going to have to live that way of life...That is the only solution that there is for us." - John Trudell

To Make your own Remedy—To Make a Nozode

A nozode is a homeopathic remedy from the bodily fluid of a person who wants to treat themselves. If you’re sick with the flu, you can catch some of your spit or phlegm or some nasal discharge (snot), mix it with a little alcohol and make a remedy from that. No joke. Get creative! Homeopathy was invented through intuition and experimentation. Nozodes can be made from food you think has poisoned you, from your own bowel movements if you have parasites, from your own urine for optimal health...it goes on! It’s up to you.

You will need: the substance you are making the remedy from, alcohol (Everclear is best, but brandy or other hard alcohol is fine), a bottle with a dropper top, and good clean water (bottle or purified, not tap).

1. Mix the substance with a little alcohol
2. Take one drop of the alcohol mixture and drop it into your bottle with the dropper top
3. Add 100 drops of water to the one drop of alcohol mixture in your bottle
4. Put the lid on and rasp the bottle 100 times

And there it is! You can make it from anything. To up the potency, take one drop from the original remedy, put it in 100 drops of water, rasp it 100 times, take a drop of this 2nd remedy, put it in 100 drops of water, rasp it for 100 times, etc. As many times as you like. If you get results, but the condition changes without going away, make a new nozode.

HUNGER:

4) FEEDING THE HUNGRY HURTS THE ENVIRONMENT

Nope. Large corporations do more to hurt the environment than developing countries: they destroy the forests and use dangerous pesticides to create bleach-free produce for US consumers.

5) THE GREEN REVOLUTION IS THE ANSWER!

The Green Revolution has boosted production, but it does nothing to change the distribution of economic power that determines who can buy the additional food.

A “New Green Revolution” based on biotech threatens to further the inherent inequalities.
HUNGER MYTHS

7. "The free market can end hunger." Unfortunatley, markets and government programs are designed to keep prices low, without resources being fully derived at the source. To...
To Make Homeopathics

For your copy, you will need: the original remedy, blank pellets (you can get them at any of the stores you see on page  ), alcohol, a clean dropper, and a clean bottle for the new remedy.

1. measure out two pellets of the original remedy (such as Rhus Tox, Amica, etc.) into the clean bottle for the new remedy
2. Fill the bottle 3/4 of the way with blank pellets
3. Use the dropper to place two drops of alcohol in the bottle of the new remedy
4. Put the lid on your bottle and rasp it against something really hard exactly 100 times.

Now you have a duplicate copy of the original remedy! There is no degradation between generations—you can make a copy from your copy, in fact. When you bottle gets low, simply fill it back up with blank pellets, put in two drops of alcohol, and rasp it 100 times. Just leave room for the pellets to shake.

“IF WE CAN'T CURE CANCER, OUR HOPES IS TO JUST LEAST TURN IT INTO A LONG-TERM PROFITABLE DISEASE.”

“FREE TRADE IS THE ANSWER!”

Note. In most 3rd world countries, exports boom under free trade while hunger persists or worsens - pro-trade policies pit working people in different countries against each other to see who will work for less without benefits - this does nothing to help workers afford available food.

Clary Sage (Salvia sclarea) is a highly esteemed European herb. It is widely cultivated in the Mediterranean. The essential oil is steam distilled from the leaves of the hardy herb. It has a distinct floral, nutty, and earthy scent.

Clary Sage Essential Oil is best known for its estrogenic effects. It contains properties that are similar to estrogen and helps to achieve female balance. As a hormone balancer, Essential Oil of Clary Sage works to regulate periods, ease tension, and ease cramps. It is a wonderful tonic for the womb and uterus.

As an extra boon to women, Essential Oil of Clary Sage possesses cell regeneration properties. It aids in controlling the production of sebum and can be used for both dry and oily skin. It is useful for acne, wrinkles, and for controlling cellulite.

As an essential oil, Clary Sage has a powerful effect on the psyche. It is sometimes called the ‘oil of laughter’. It has an euphoric effect that is almost narcotic. It is a relaxant for the mind, body, and spirit.

Clary Sage Essential Oil also contains seductive, aphrodisiac properties that are perfect for women experiencing a loss of interest in sex during the peri-menopausal years. Its ability to relieve anxiety and stress make it an excellent choice for a romantic massage blend.
"To love the earth, you must first know it, and by the time you do, we'll be able to build a better world."

Tane Rosa

All of our ancestors were indigenous to somewhere; that is, they were deeply rooted in one place, living in a culture in which sustenance, spirit, and culture arose from the plants, animals, climate, and resources of that particular land. If we are going to create a new political/economic/social system, one that truly cares for the environment and for human beings, we may need to become indigenous again, to find at least one spot on the earth we can know intimately.

It takes time to get to know a place. Permaculture, the system of ecological design I attempt to put into practice on my land, has a guiding principle:

"Use thoughtful and protracted observation instead of thoughtless intervention."

Learning a place takes time because what we need to observe are patterns that only become apparent through time. Observation itself, for most of us, requires a shift in awareness. Most of us don't actually know how to see and hear what is going on around us in the physical world. When we do go out into the forest or the mountains, nature becomes a scenic background to our own thoughts and dramas. If we want to repattern our awareness, we need to arrange some regular collisions with nature.

OPEN YOUR SENSES.
THE COCHABAMBA DECLARATION

For the right to life, for the respect of nature and the uses and traditions of our peoples, for all time the following shall be denied us, of water given to us by the earth:

1. Water belongs to the earth and all species and is sacred to life. Therefore, the world's water must be conserved, reclaimed, and protected for all future generations and its natural patterns respected.

2. Water is a fundamental human right and a public trust to be guarded by all levels of government; therefore, it should not be commodified, privatized, or traded for commercial purposes. These rights must be enshrined by all levels of government. In particular, an international treaty must ensure the protection of local communities and citizens who must be respected as the custodians of the land and its water.

3. Water is best protected by local communities and treated by local communities, which must be involved in all aspects of water management and conservation. In particular, indigenous peoples are entitled to participate in the management of their water resources.

THE BENEFITS OF TEA TREE

Known as "a first aid in a bottle," tea tree oil has many uses. As a "first aid in a bottle," tea tree oil has many uses. It is a natural and anti-inflammatory agent. It is able to deeply penetrate the skin and is a natural insect repellent.

Tea tree oil is a natural and anti-inflammatory agent. It is able to deeply penetrate the skin and is a natural insect repellent. It has been used in alternative medicine and as an antiseptic in various healthcare products. Tea tree oil is also safe, natural, and insect repellent.

In hair products, tea tree oil dissolves buildup of dead skin and scalp oil, ensuring healthy skin. It is also used in toothpastes and mouthwashes for its germicidal and solvent properties.

There's a physiological reason why roses have been the ideal gift to express love and forgiveness for thousands of years. They literally soothe the heart and emotions. What may surprise you is that the rose also balances the mind. Essential rose oils used in aromatherapy are also being investigated for their antibacterial, anti-inflammatory, and antihemorrhagic properties.

The rose enhances beauty in many ways. Local applications (such as in creams and poultices) cool, moisturize, and tone the skin. Massaging the body with rose and sandalwood pastes enhances beauty. The essence of rose augments the glow and complexion of the skin. The rose enlivens inner beauty, helps the skin to radiate inner glow out to others, and enhances all seven dhatus (body tissues). When used over time, the essence of rose pacifies the heat in the blood, and thus keeps imbalances in the skin from erupting.

A traditional preparation using the rose is rose petal jam, made by cooking rose petals and sugar. Eaten on its own, or made into a drink with milk or fresh yogurt and water, rose petal jam has a cooling effect on mind and body.

OUR AGREEMENTS WITH EARTH AND WITH LIFE

1. To love and preserve the earth and all natural things.
2. To always improve our knowledge about nature and agriculture.
3. To produce food to eliminate hunger in humanity. To avoid monoculture and the use of agricultural pesticides.
4. To preserve the already existing forest and to reforest new areas.
5. To take care of the springs, rivers, wetlands, and lakes. To fight against the privatization of water.
6. To make the camp and community beautiful by planting flowers, medicinal herbs, and trees.
7. To adequately treat the trash and to fight any threats of contamination and aggression of the environment.
8. To practice solidarity and to revolt against any kind of injustice, aggression, and exploitation against a person, a community, and nature.
9. To fight against the large estates so that everyone can have land, bread, education, and freedom.
10. Never sell the land. The land is the supreme gift for the future generations. Agrarian Reform — for a Brazil without large estates!!!
"The poor are too hungry to fight for their rights." The poor are not helpless - they are surviving due to tremendous efforts. We do not need to starve them; what we can do is fight with them against the obstacles created by large corporations, the U.S. government, and World Bank and International Monetary Fund policies.

"More U.S. aid is the answer!" Most U.S. aid works directly against the hungry. Foreign aid reinforces the status quo - our aid cushions the government elites and does not reach those who need it. It would be better to use our foreign aid budget for unconditional debt relief.

The Liver is intricately linked to dietary intake and how effectively and efficiently the body uses, stores or deactivates dietary derived substances absorbed from the intestine. Most of the nutrients absorbed from the intestine are transported directly to the liver for storage, repacking or combining with other compounds. Waste products and other potentially toxic substances produced in the body or absorbed from the intestine are detoxified in the liver. The liver is rightly called the engine of the body. The liver plays a pivotal role in the manufacture, storage and regulation of essential compounds. The liver plays an important role in the regulation of glycogen levels. Minerals, proteins, sugars and fats are stored, manufactured or regulated by this organ. Damage to the liver could result in a host of serious health problems such as Hepatitis, Cirrhosis, Jaundice, Hemochromatosis.

Some of the more common Liver diseases are:

- Hepatitis - Inflammation of the liver caused by Viruses, Toxins or blockage of the duct leading from the liver to the gall bladder.

- Cirrhosis - Deterioration of healthy liver tissue and accumulation of fibrous tissue caused by reduction of liver function as a result of alcohol abuse or modern hepatotoxic drugs.

- Jaundice - A Disease characterized by the yellow pigmentation of eyes, urine, fingernails, skin and accumulation of bile in the body. Contaminated water is the main cause of this disease.

A healthy, balanced diet and regular clearing of toxins from the body is recommended for maintenance of a healthy liver.
Internally, Lavender is believed to be of benefit for a multitude of problems, including stress, anxiety, exhaustion, irritability, headaches, migraines, insomnia, depression, colds, digestion, flatulence, upset stomach, liver and gallbladder problems, nervousness, loss of appetite, and as a breath freshener and mouthwash. Inhaling the essential oil in some cases has been reported to work as well as narcotics for inducing relaxation and sleep, easing symptoms of depression, and reducing headache pain. For inhalation purposes, boil 2 cups of water, add 2 drops of essential oil, and inhale the steam.

Externally, Lavender oil is one of the safest essential oils and can be used full-strength on the skin. It works wonderfully and can be applied directly for cuts, scrapes, wounds, burns, bee, wasp, and insect stings, rashes, muscle aches, rheumatism, arthritis, cold sores, canker sores, blisters, bruises, athlete's foot, and rubbed directly into the temples in case of headache or migraine.

Miscellaneous uses of Lavender include using unsweetened tea as a hair rinse to help reduce hair loss and dandruff, using the dried flowers in sleep and dream pillows, in potpourri, sachets and tucked in drawers to freshen clothing and repel moths. A few drops of oil dropped into warm bath water is a refreshing and relaxing treat.
GLOBAL MEDICINE:
Chinese Patent Medicines:

The patent medicines are time-tested combos of Chinese herbs, usually created and patented by specific families.

FOR EMERGENCIES, TRY YUNNAN PAILIAO: widely known as "the very best emergency medicine" - to be taken internally or externally directly on a wound - stops bleeding, activates blood circulation, promotes healing. Yunnan Pailiao comes in plastic-foil packages of several orange pills - each package has one very small red pill to be taken for internal bleeding ...

FOR SORE MUSCLES, BRUISES, SPRAINS: TRY ZHENG GU SHUI: for external use.

= OR = CHIN KOO - used with Zheng gu shui or Arnica, this is powerful stuff.

ESSENTIAL OILS:

MANAGING INSOMNIA:

OILS TO TRY: Sandalwood, Rose, Benzoin, Roman Chamomile, Jasmine, Neroli, Lavender, Sweet Marjoram, Melissa, Ylang Ylang

A relaxing bath with essential oils of Roman camomile and geranium will help a person to unwind before sleep. A glass of camomile tea will complete the process.

A relaxant effect may be provided by oils of camomile, lavender, neroli, rose, and marjoram. Add a few drops to your bathwater or sprinkle a few drops on a handkerchief and inhale.

The following essential oils may be useful for management of sleep:

For skin application the essential oil must be diluted in a vegetable carrier oil such as cold-pressed sunflower oil or sweet almond oil. Use 7-10 drops of essential oil to 25ml (five teaspoons) of carrier oil for adults, 3-5 drops for children under seven and 1-3 drops for children under the age of three. Do not use essential oils on newborn babies.

Any oil can be used in the bath. Add 5-10 drops for adults, 3-5 drops for children over two, and only one drop of a very gentle oil such as chamomile or lavender for younger children.

Inhalation is also effective. Put one or two drops of a relaxing oil onto a handkerchief and tuck it inside your pillow to help you sleep.

A combination of essential oils may be used.
According to Traditional Chinese Medicine, anger is held in the liver. Therefore, treat anger and frustration with essential oils as you would anxiety or depression, but try this, too:

To release the emotion of anger, place the essential oils on acupuncture points corresponding to the liver. This point is found in the web between the big toe and the second toe between the metatarsal bones approximately one thumb width up towards the ankle.

First feel your anger and bring it into conscious awareness. Next, imagine laughter or an emotion that you feel is opposite of anger. Finally, make a positive statement verbalizing a "way out" ("My direction is clear"). This will shift you away from an undesirable emotional state and open the way for your solution. Monitor your thoughts closely.

In addition, to relieve the liver, eat less. Limit your intake of highly processed foods and increase your intake of lightly steamed vegetables and whole grains. Honey is an excellent detoxifier if used sparingly. Honey mixed with apple cider vinegar has a particularly beneficial effect on the liver. Mix one teaspoon of each in a cup of water to detoxify and activate the liver.

What is the World Agricultural Forum?

Its motto is “peace and security through agriculture.” In its literature, the World Agricultural Forum (WAF) repeatedly identifies itself as global, neutral and inclusive.

Yet it is none of these things.

Its board of directors is made up almost entirely of white male executives from the US.

The 17-member board includes five individuals who are current or former Monsanto executives and one who is married to Monsanto’s director of public relations. The WAF provides its corporate members a forum where they can influence agricultural and trade ministers from around the world.

The WAF agenda promotes the privatization of water, global acceptance of genetically modified organisms, patenting of life forms and elimination of barriers to trade—including environmental protections and the subsidies designed to aid small farmers.

This year’s WAF gathering, “Working Together to Create the Future and Disable the Barriers,” was held from May 18-20 in St. Louis, Missouri.

“If food is a weapon, then genetic engineering is a weapon of mass destruction.”
