The United Front Song, or Einheitsfrontlied in German, was a call for Left Unity to oppose Hitler and rising Fascism in Europe written by Bertolt Brecht. Used again in the Spanish Civil War, the song remains one of the best calls to action for a worker's movement. Like most translations, the song is not direct verbatim, but takes liberty to make a more singable platform.

So Left, Two, Three!
So Left, Two, Three!
To the work that we must do.

March on in the Workers' United Front,
For you are a worker too!

The workers is the task of
The working class
No class can free him but his own!
And just because he's a worker,
And just because he's human,
He wants no pistol to his head,
He doesn't give a servant under him,
And no boss over his head.

For you are a worker too!

March on in the Workers' United Front,
To the work that we must do.
So Left, Two, Three!

That gives no bread or meat,
And a lot of talk,
He wants no bread.
A man would like a little bit to eat,
And just because he's human.
